Reading and Vocabulary

- 1 Read the passage about a gap year with the help of the following words and expressions. 🎧

gap year    volunteer    recall    expose    possibility    cover
 explore one's strengths    academic

Polly, an 18-year-old girl from the US, had a gap year after graduating from high school. She went to South Africa to volunteer at a wildlife conservation centre. She recalled, "My experience during the gap year was fantastic, and it exposed me to possibilities I never knew existed. I will never forget it!"

A gap year is a year between leaving high school and going to college, which some young people use as an opportunity to travel, earn money or gain work experience. Different people have different opinions about the gap year. Let's see what some students say about it.

Lisa: I'd like to take a gap year before going to college. I believe the gap year could help me find what I really want to do in the future. I love travelling, so during the gap year I could travel the world and have closer contact with different cultures. A year is long enough for me to go anywhere I want and see the world. During the year, I can also do part-time jobs and earn some money to cover my travelling expenses.

Andy: Few people know exactly what they want to do when they're in high school. It's smart to take a gap year to figure out your ambitions. You can also add real value to your résumé and develop invaluable first-hand industry knowledge by working in a certain field.

Wang Xiaoming: I would like to take a gap year if I was given the opportunity. I could find a part-time job or work as a volunteer during the year to explore my strengths. Besides, a gap year could help me get better prepared for college and society. However, taking a gap year also worries me a little, because it might not be safe for students to work or travel alone at such a young age. What's more, some students may find it hard to get used to an academic environment again after travelling or working for a year.

Tips

西方国家的年轻人在上大学之前，通常会用一年的时间来实习或旅游，这一年叫做gap year。

2 Read again and match the students with their opinions about a gap year. Then share your opinion with your classmates.

- Polly figure out your ambitions; develop invaluable industry knowledge
- Lisa have a fantastic experience and expose you to various possibilities
- Andy get better prepared for college and society
- Wang Xiaoming find what you really want to do

3 Read the passage again and sum up the excitements and worries of a gap year.

excitements	worries

- 4 Discuss in pairs. Would you like to take a gap year? What would you like to do during the gap year?

Grammar for Use

Non-restrictive attributive clause conducted by which

Read the following sentences. Pay attention to the non-restrictive attributive clauses conducted by “which”.

1. A gap year is a year between leaving high school and going to college, which some young people use as an opportunity to travel, earn money or gain work experience.
2. Parkour comes from the French word “parcours”, which means route or path.
3. Jenny passed the driving test, which came as a surprise.
4. The weather turned out to be fine, which we hadn't expected.

定语从句可分为限制性定语从句和非限制性定语从句两种。限制性定语从句对先行词起限制作用，二者关系密切。非限制性定语从句与先行词之间的关系较为松散，如果去掉从句，不影响主句的意义，从句与主句之间通常用逗号隔开。which 引导的非限制性定语从句所指代或修饰的可以是主句中的某一个词，也可以是整个句子。

Practical Reading

1 Read the following posters.

Beijing Cyber Games

Project

The English Week in your college is coming. The Student Union is considering organising some activities, such as English Songs Contest, English Speech Competition, etc. Design a poster for one of the activities, and then present it to the class.

1 Work in groups of four and choose an activity.

2 Determine the main information of the poster.

3 Select or draw pictures for the poster.

4 Draw up a brief introduction for the activity.

5 Make a five-minute presentation.

Around the World 🎧

Break-dancing is a form of street dancing that incorporates body movements, coordination, style and aesthetics. Break-dancing grew up around hip-hop music during its early stages of development in the US. In one of its most popular moves, dancers would support themselves on one hand while spinning their bodies around and kicking out their legs.

Parkour comes from the French word “parcours”, which means route or path. The aim in parkour is to jump, climb or run over and around any wall, staircase or fence blocking your path. Sounds like a fun game, right? Parkour is not exactly a sport. It was not developed for competition. It is more about learning to control mind and body in difficult situations.

Orienteering is an adventure sport where participants navigate using a map and a compass to find their way between some control points. The control points are marked on a specially drawn map. The skills required for orienteering lie in choosing the best route between control points. The mental challenge as well as the physical activity makes orienteering a popular sport.
