Ads are everywhere: they try to be your friend on social media, pop up in the background of your videogame, and even message your phone when you walk by a store. With greater access to technology, people are exposed to a host of advertising, which might be affecting their minds.

Letter 2

Dear John,

Cook something that would let you spend time with your guests. If a guest offers to help you in the kitchen, accept the offer. It often makes people feel more comfortable when they can help. Before serving dinner, while your guests make small talks in the living room, offer them drinks. Some guests may like wine, but make sure to provide soft drinks for people who don't.

At the dinner table, let your guests serve themselves. Offer them a second serving after they finish, but don't ask more than once. Most guests will take more if they want.

Perhaps the most important rule of all is to be natural. Treat your guests as you want them to treat you when you are in their home—that is, act naturally toward them, and don't try too hard to be polite. Have a good time in a pleasant atmosphere.
